AT KEMP,
WE DON'T JUST ASK
FOR YOUR TRUST,
WE EARN IT.

At Kemp Construction the “well-built, every time” promise means that:

You can hire us with confidence.

We invest in certification because we believe that you should be able to tell – up front – whether you’re dealing with a reputable builder. The logos at the bottom of the page mean that we don’t just ask for your trust, we earn it.

Your project will exceed industry standards.

Our technical expertise is second to none. We’re industry forerunners in new building technology and practices, so your project won’t just meet code, it will exceed it, and give you greater comfort, durability and resale value.

You never have to choose between performance and style.

We believe that the performance of your home is just as important as its beauty. Kemp can build features such as high energy efficiency and low environmental impact into any style of home, so that it will look good – and feel good – for generations.

We look after the details.

We offer full-service general contracting – from finding an architect to final inspection – so that you can embark on your dream project with an experienced partner and no worries.

We treat you (and everyone else) like we’d like to be treated.

To ensure that you get the home you want, we make our relationships a priority – with you, and with top professionals in the business. It’s who we are, but it’s also how we bring you the best – because good partnerships build great homes.

We keep you informed.

Our online project manager and weekly site meetings ensure that there are no hidden surprises, delays or charges. You can relax, knowing exactly where your project is at.

We strive for prize-winning quality – every time.

Our work ranks with the industry’s best, (check our website for the reviews), but the prize that pushes us to do winning work every time is the smile on your face.

We build where we live, so we build with care.

When you work with Kemp, you’re working with a local company that’s here to stay. With more than 20 years experience in the home-building industry, we’re committed to our craft, to our community, and to creating homes that stand the test of time.
